Instrument Security

Keysight makes compliance with U.S. Department of Defense Instrument Security* requirements easy and efficient

Our commitment to the Aerospace and Defense industry goes beyond simply delivering products that meet your technical requirements. We deliver business solutions that help you meet the non-product-related requirements of your customers.

We help you meet the stringent requirements to comply with The National Industrial Security Program Operators Manual, also known as "NISPOM."

We provide the resources necessary to meet your commitments to The Department of Defense and your end customers.

Products

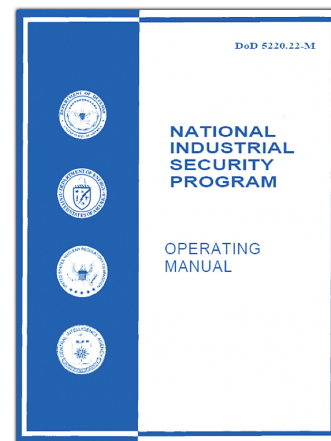

- New product designs
- Existing product modifications
- Common platform emphasis

Customer Support

- Online security website
- Technical Center support

Industry Involvement

- Engagement with industry leaders and government program offices

Keysight Technologies is recognized as the leader in the documentation and products your company needs to comply with NISPOM.
